About

I am Joshua Jones, a Brooklyn New York city-based front end web developer with an intense passion for all things web related. This passion to create memorable experiences online has followed me throughout my life from a young age when I first learned about the internet. I strive to perfect my understanding of Web development technologies and tools, and remain hungry in pursuing each day as an opportunity to learn more.

Work Experience

03
YEARS 2015 -

Sr Front End Developer - Five & Done

Working with a great team of designers and fellow developers, I help create memorable experiences for users visiting client's sites, making use of the latest available web technologies.

03
YEARS 2012 - '15

Sr Front End Developer - 2Advanced Studios

I work with a highly talented and skilled team of designers and developers, helping with client needs and coding "world class" designs using clean, organized and semantic HTML, CSS and JavaScript to ensure all client sites have the best possible performance.

04
YEARS 2009 - '12

Front End Developer - Krypt Web Hosting

I designed graphics to be used throughout the company's website, as well as designed and coded Web interfaces for customers to manage their accounts and services. I also designed and coded the internal CMS interface to help the staff perform daily tasks with ease. Apart from designing and implementing those designs, I helped guide and manage junior developers on multiple projects.

01
YEAR 2011 - '12

Website Coordinator - Digital Press Videogames

I setup, designed, coded and continue to help manage DPVideogames.com. Tasks and responsibilities included everything from setting up the server, to the website's launch and regular additions to the website throughout the year. The entire scope of the project was completely entrusted to me to make the right choices for delivering a great website and experience for the Digital Press gaming community.

11
YEARS '07 - Present

Freelance Web Developer - JoshuaJonesDesign

As a freelance front end Web developer, I design and code websites for both small and large companies. Large companies such as Experian have brought me on, as well local businesses such as Dekra-Lite to help spruce up their site offering commercial quality Christmas decorations. Always working to write clean, semantic code for all projects I work on.
